

LAKESIDE MIDDLE SCHOOL FFA AND AGRICULTURE PROGRAM

The agricultural education program, middle school as well as high school, is composed of three major interlocking parts:

1. Classroom and laboratory
2. Supervised Agricultural Experience Program (SAEP), or project
3. Leadership development

All of the above components are important to the development of students into informed, participating and contributing members of society. It is important for the students to be able to practice in the laboratory, field and community what they have learned in the classroom. Agriculture students further expand their learning through work in a Supervised Agricultural Experience Program. Personal development through leadership training and the FFA are highly valuable to all students whether or not they choose a career in agriculture.
